

The Defeat of Earth

Monday, August 8, 2022

I am an ambassador and I am not here to tell you that mankind will be defeated, but to prove that mankind has already been defeated. So, I am not here to tender threats, but to open your eyes to something you have not been able to see, that mankind has already been defeated. How? Not by anything perceptible, not bullets, bombs, virus's or anything your body can detect, but through your mind. Access to man's mind is incomprehensible to mankind, so how does one demonstrate it? By leading you step by step to a schism in your mind, a schism which affects humanity as a whole, a schism which can be pointed out but only by taking one step at a time, until you are faced with a contradiction that is so blatant, you cannot explain why you have never noticed it before. That schism makes it impossible to form rational judgments, i.e. mankind is led to fight each other, rather than fighting the real enemy and in your present state, you cannot even believe it.

To show you, how to prove it to yourself is by pointing out how to connect the dots, as is said. The conclusion will bring you face to face with a singular fact, you have been rendered schizophrenic, and you may suspect it, but the proof of it has been beyond your ability. You may have even had a nagging fear that something is wrong, but you have never been able to, as is said, put your finger on it. The schizophrenia is so effective that when it is explained to you, how a mind is supposed to function by biological fact, you cannot understand what is being said, it sounds like gibberish to you.

What is the only way possible for you to detect this schizophrenic condition for yourself?

First I am going to get you to anchor your mind on a very perceptible thing, your computer. Make that computer your tether to reality. Hold on to it. Do not, under any circumstances, let it slip away from your mind. That computer, is a fact which you do not realize, proves your schizophrenia, a real and perceptible object, you have yet to face the implication of. The computer, itself, is applying undeniable environmental stress, but upon your mind.

How does a computer work? It is called binary, what you imagine is only 0 and 1's. What does that mean? Think about what the computer can do, it can process all information and produce all behavior to which it is applied, by only two parts of speech: Only two. But what have you been taught in school about Common Grammar, Arithmetic, Algebra and Geometry? You have been taught to believe and you do believe that they are not produced in one and only one manner, but in many and diverse ways. In short, functional judgment, the ability to think, is produced by knowing how to use, not many and diverse concepts, but only two. You have factually been taught that schizophrenia is normal and functional behavior, and you have never suspected that what you have been taught is provably wrong. All grammar systems, all systems of judgment, is done by a method of counting for if you understand the mind, it functions by the intelligible, not the perceptible, the bodies senses do not make judgments, you do, nor do grammar systems make knowledge, but in order to make those judgments, you have to parse analog data streams, verbs, i.e. the relative differences and this can only be accomplished by functional systems of grammar by which a functional mind operates by parsing, asserting nouns as limits to perceptible information.

Mankind is unable to unify human purpose, because mankind does not even know what unity is, but they do know, all the time, what schizophrenia is, which they think is normal.

The human mind is biologically designed to learn behavior, and apply that behavior for survival. It can do this because a thing is defined as a standard of behavior, or a binary construct. Standard is to noun as behavior is to the verb, i.e. just two parts of speech.

Now, the human mind does recognize this, in a manner of speaking, in Arithmetic, Algebra and Geometry, i.e. one can develop devastating technology with it, but the human mind does not recognize its application in Common Grammar, the grammar requisite for the establishment of functional psychology, nor how to use technology for survival which is inclusive of the whole earth.

The verb, just like the senses of the body, is metaphorical, you always use the same group of senses to sense everything, i.e. applicable to every example of a relative difference, but it is definitely not working in the grammar essential to human survival. I.e. mankind has already been defeated. As you can prove the results of Arithmetic, Algebra and Geometry, it follows you should be able to prove the results of any judgment in Common Grammar, but you cannot, contrary to facts of grammar, you cannot, and you believe that this is normal. Counting, binary recursion can produce one, and only one result, it is not possible to produce many as you believe. Your mental schism is staring you in the face. What are you doing? Fighting it, denying it: In the face of real and solid evidence? Is that a sane response?

All of my work is on grammar, and defeating the enemy of mankind, but so far, I have been unsuccessful in getting people to recognize a very provable fact concerning human psychology. Yet what does it mean, when mankind has been told that I would be here, at a definite time in human history? Think about that, only one out of billions, and you will understand, mankind has already been defeated. The only thing left is Judgment Day there is not anything that I can do about it, except offer mankind the only terms of surrender that will be accepted, to defeat the enemy in your own mind, that is why I am a grammar teacher, a teacher of judgment, for, by Law, whatever judgment you render, will be used to judge you. The body cannot defend against an intelligible weapon; there is no defense it can form, for it cannot even detect it. However, consider the truth of it, as all of the body's senses are metaphorical, so to is binary for the intelligible, however, today, you can see for yourself, the mind of man is not working that way, not at all.

What is the first thing that mankind forgets when it comes to evolution? It is designed to free a species from death through the defeat of the behavior of the environment. One defeats the behavior of the Universe, by learning to hear: which is the functional understanding of behavior by the voice of the Universe itself. Evolution is about a journey out of the wilderness, into unity through judgment, as was written, that unity is a unified war against death. I am an ambassador, which proves that mankind has the ability to defeat it, not by being told anything, but by being shown where to look and learn. Now, by keeping your mind fixed on the computer, you can examine my work, my discoveries, and see how they apply to man's survival.

Your computer is telling you, binary is metaphorical, is used to process all information, that the universe, itself, is the recursion of the definition of a thing, great or small. A thing is a binary expression, noun and verb, 0 and 1, point and line. That binary is metaphorical is proof that all functional grammar systems, when correctly constructed for teaching, have to be also, metaphorical. This is not what is taught today.

Evolution, by definition, is the war on death which can only be won by comprehending the voice of the Universe and it is also telling you, it can be defeated. Evolution is the war that is always lost, until you win that war. Evolution always starts from a schizophrenic state of existence until one achieves life.

The facts speak for themselves, who can you even point to, which is not schizophrenic, and a danger not only to themselves, but to the whole of the environment? How can you, when you do not even know how many parts of speech are even possible, nor know how to distinguish, by actual use in proofing systems, the difference between a noun and a verb?

So there you are, face to face with a perceptible object, which processes all information metaphorically, and your own memory, educated to believe that this is not true and not even possible. Confrontational Therapy, Face to face with the real, confronting what you have always thought was true, but provably is not. What do you do?

The computer is made by man's own hand, yet, his own hand is proving the schism in his own mind. That is the Mark of the Beast, a metaphor a schizophrenic could not possibly solve.

Judgment Day, is one of the most dangerous times in evolution, it is also known as a cusp point, a point which can save, or destroy a species. The computer is forcing you to choose, is it to be used for the annihilation of humanity, or for its salvation? And if for man's salvation, which type of human must be denied the use of that tool? Is it gun control which is man's problem, or the control of machine behavior used for weapons of war?

You demand that safety is in chaos; your computer proves that it is not, but quite the contrary. Bring yourself back to this confrontation with reality and what you think you know as many times as you need, in order to wake up to reality. A mind that is sleeping, is a body undefended. This dream of yours is the nightmare. Are you going to fight to live, or surrender to death? Your choice is called natural selection.